Who manufactured the rearview mirror? She doesn't know. Nissan had it ordered and installed through their factory authorized dealer. Can you please check with your client? Also, please advise us as to how long she kept her car battery plugged into a charger. 9 months Does she still do this? if needed. Hasn't had to do it since December.

Homelink is a system (like a garage system). Homelink did not manufacture the mirror. I spoke with Sam at Hurricane Glass in South Houston regarding installation of and manufacture of the mirror. His number is 281-487-6438. The problem is not with the installation, but instead with the mirror itself.

I plan on contacting my client this afternoon to tell her what I have learned today. I will keep you updated.

Please advise who at Homelink you are speaking to as that isn't a privileged communication and we'd like to do the same. Thanks,

Susan,

At this time, NNA withdraws its settlement offer. We believe the battery problems may have been caused by the aftermarket mirror installed in the vehicle by Homelink. I am in the process of contacting Homelink to further discuss.
